On December 25, 2016 at about 1:45 pm, the Hudson Police Department received a report of a suspicious package in the parking lot of 7-Eleven located at 230 Central Street. Upon the officers arrival they discovered a piece of luggage on top of a bin for clothing donations. These bins are in close proximity to the store's gas pumps. Based on the responding officers' observations, the Nashua Police Department Bomb Squad was summoned to the scene. The Nashua Police Department Bomb Squad utilized their robot and other equipment, and determined that the suitcase was not a danger. The 7-Eleven store and parking lot reopened after being closed for about 2-1/2 hours. Additionally, there was no injuries.

There is no active investigation regarding this incident as it appears that the piece of luggage was intended to be a donation for the clothes receptacle. However, the Hudson Police Department is urging everyone to use common sense when of disposing items near collection bins.
