On Friday May 29, 2015, members of the Hudson Police Legal Division and Community Oriented Policing Unit arrested Gale Doiron, 57-years-old, of Nashua, New Hampshire, charging her with (4) counts of Stalking, Class A Misdemeanors, and (1) count of Witness Tampering, Class B Felony.

On May 27, 2015 the Hudson Police learned that Gale Doiron had violated conditions of her bail by having contact with her son's domestic violence victim on four separate occasions. During one of those occasions, Gale Doiron attempted to induce the victim to lie in her son's upcoming Superior Court case.

Gale Doiron was already out on bail for (1) count of Criminal Liability for Conduct of Another where it is alleged she assisted her son in stalking his victim.

Gale Doiron's son, Arthur Doiron, 37-years-old, is currently being held at the New Hampshire State Prison. Arthur Doiron is facing numerous Domestic Violence and Felony Stalking charges in the Hillsborough County Superior Court.

The investigation resulted in the arrest of Gale Doiron who is currently being held on $10,000 cash bail at the Hillsborough County Jail pending her arraignment. A Class B Felony is punishable by up to 3 ½ -7 years in Prison, exclusive of fines. Each Class A Misdemeanor is punishable by up to one year in a County House of Correction, exclusive of fines.
