On June 10th at around 0730 hours the Hudson Fire and Police departments responded to the Dunkin Donuts at the intersection of Lowell Road and Flagstone Drive for a report of a car that struck the building. Upon arrival it was discovered that a 2005 Toyota Sienna minivan driven by:

Jennifer MCCOMAS
43 years old
Of Hudson NH

Had struck the front of the building causing major damage to the building. The operator stated that while making a backing maneuver she thought the vehicle was in reverse however it was in drive. The Hudson Fire Department inspected the damage and deemed the building unsafe to open for business. The entire pastry display had to be thrown away due to being showered with flying debris. The operator of the van and the occupants of the van were not injured. There were no injuries in the building which is usually busy with inside the store customers at this time of day. There are no charges pending in this case at this time.
